

NAME: _____ DATE: _____

LEVEL 3 – UNIT TEST

PAGE 1 OF 4

LISTENING

A 4.1 Listen to a radio interview. Complete the sentences with one word in each gap.

- 1 In his classes, Frank teaches people the same skills that actors use.
- 2 A manager can use these skills to motivate the people who work for him or her.
- 3 During a presentation, you should keep your shoulders relaxed and your head up.
- 4 You can focus your audience's attention if you stop what you're saying and pause for a moment.
- 5 Frank works mainly with company managers, business leaders, and politicians.

VOCABULARY

A Complete the words in the sentences. The first letter is given and there is one space for each letter.

- 1 We have a good c connection and can guess each other's thoughts.
- 2 It's not easy to p persuade people to do what you tell them.
- 3 I have to be h honest and say your communication skills need improvement.
- 4 I don't have a lot in c common with most of the people I work with.

B Choose the correct answers to complete the sentences.

- 1 If you talk at such a fast volume / speed, our foreign guests won't be able to understand you.
- 2 The volume / space of your voice shouldn't be too loud—shouting upsets some people.
- 3 A person's speed / tone of voice nearly always expresses how they feel.
- 4 Not everyone uses touch / position to help them communicate—some people really dislike it when you put your hand on their arm.
- 5 Some people like to have a lot of personal distance / space when they talk to someone.

C Complete the sentences with the correct words from the box.

clap point shake smile thumbs

- 1 My boss gave a thumbs up to my idea—he agreed that it will improve our sales.
- 2 I was thrilled when everyone started to clap at the end of my presentation.
- 3 People use the smile emoji to show they are happy or like something.
- 4 In the US, it's common to shake hands with people when you meet them.
- 5 Don't point your finger at people. It's rude!

GRAMMAR

A Check (✓) the correct sentences. Rewrite the sentences that have mistakes. There is at least one correct sentence.

- 1 ☐ Why do many people find it hard express themselves? Why do many people find it hard to express themselves?
- 2 ☐ She persuaded him take some public-speaking lessons. She persuaded him to take some public-speaking lessons.
- 3 ☐ Speak clearly to make sure people can understand you. Speak clearly to make sure people can understand you.
- 4 ☐ Tom likes use photos and diagrams to make his presentations more interesting. Tom likes to use photos and diagrams to make his presentations more interesting.
- 5 ☐ It's not easy motivate people to work harder. It's not easy to motivate people to work harder.

B Choose True or False.

- 1 Both these sentences are correct. I looked "gesture" up in the dictionary.
I looked up "gesture" in the dictionary. True / False
- 2 This sentence is correct. You can rely Mark on to be early. True / False
- 3 This sentence is incorrect. Tom ran Karl into at the gym this morning. True / False
- 4 This sentence is correct. She's making it up about the promotion. True / False
- 5 This sentence is correct. Why don't you call back him now? True / False

C In each pair of sentences, there is one correct and one incorrect sentence. Check (✓) the correct sentences.

- 1 Try to look people in the eye when you talk to them.
Try look people in the eye when you talk to them.
- 2 He came up an idea with for an advertising campaign.
He came up with an idea for an advertising campaign.
- 3 I'd prefer not eat out this evening.
I'd prefer not to eat out this evening.
- 4 You could take it up a new sport.
You could take up a new sport.
- 5 He appears to believe he is the boss!
He appears believe he is the boss!

☒ ☐

☒ ☐

☒ ☐

☒ ☐

☒ ☐

READING

A Read the text. Choose the correct answers (a, b, or c).

Another measure of intelligence

When we talk about how intelligent a person is, we usually judge them based on how well they can do things like solve a mathematical problem or understand difficult ideas. But what about “emotional intelligence”? What is it? What role does it play in communication and can it be taught or developed?

Emotional intelligence is a form of intelligence that is different from the way we usually judge how clever someone is. Some people naturally have both kinds of intelligence. Others may only have one or the other. The people who have it are able to understand how others feel, as well as recognizing and managing their own feelings. This helps them avoid unnecessary arguments and build better relationships with others. If you can understand your own feelings, manage stressful situations, and control the way you react to anger, then this shows you possess this form of intelligence. But why is it useful?

It is useful because it can help everyone build better, stronger relationships with friends, family, and coworkers. This means it is a very useful skill for managers and business owners to have. It is a quality that helps leaders develop relationships with people in ways that inspire and encourage them to do better. It also means that people will be more able to manage situations, such as disagreements, that could have a negative effect on their working environment.

It's certainly true that some people naturally show more emotional intelligence than others, but this does not mean it cannot be developed. Just as a good learning environment can help us be better at math or history, it can also help develop emotional intelligence. With good training methods, anyone can learn to recognize their own feelings and then control and use them well. For example, you can learn not to react in anger when others upset you. You can learn that being understanding and giving encouragement to other people has better results than fighting with them.

In the end, emotional intelligence is one of the most important qualities for a leader to have, and it is a skill that everyone can work to develop and improve.

- 1 The article says that people ...
 - a can have two kinds of intelligence.
 - b don't usually have natural emotional intelligence.
 - c can only have one form of intelligence naturally.
- 2 One sign of emotional intelligence is ...
 - a using arguments to get what you want.
 - b avoiding people you don't like.
 - c having the ability to control emotions.
- 3 Leaders need emotional intelligence ...
 - a so that employees know who is the boss.
 - b to help them motivate other people.
 - c so they can act less negatively at work.
- 4 How can people learn to develop emotional intelligence?
 - a It's mainly a skill that people naturally have.
 - b By working with others to recognize negative emotions.
 - c In the same way they develop other forms of learning.
- 5 What does the word “it,” in bold in paragraph 4, refer to?
 - a emotional intelligence
 - b math and history
 - c a good learning environment

WRITING

A Read the information. Write an email to a colleague inviting him/her to the event. Write at least 100 words.

Event: A summer garden party and barbecue

Time and place: My backyard, May 21, 7 p.m.

Notes: Bring a dessert please! Let me know if you're coming with or without a guest.

SPEAKING

A Give a short presentation on the best ways to motivate and inspire the people you work with.